

Advisory Committee on Medical Devices (ACMD)

Meeting statement

Friday 24 February 2017 – meeting 31

Role of the ACMD in the TGA's regulatory decision making process

The Advisory Committee on Medical Devices (ACMD) is a statutory advisory committee established by the Therapeutic Goods Regulations 1990. The committee provides independent expert advice on specific scientific and technical matters in order to aid the TGA's decision making and other regulatory processes.

While the advice provided by the ACMD is an important element in the undertaking of the TGA's regulatory functions it forms only part of the information that is available to delegates when they make a regulatory decision under the Therapeutic Goods Act 1989. It is important to note that while appropriate consideration will always be given to such advice, the TGA is not obliged to follow the specific recommendations and advice given by the committee.

It should also be noted that information about advice provided by the committee may not become publicly available for some time after the committee has provided that advice. The purpose of this Meeting Statement is to describe in general terms the matters considered by the committee at each meeting and for it to be available as soon as reasonably practical after the relevant meeting.

Update on matters where the Committee previously provided advice and a TGA decision has been made

No updates were provided to the 31st meeting regarding previous meetings.

Overview of the therapeutic goods referred for advice

At the 31st ACMD meeting the committee considered the following devices:

- An implantable intraocular pressure reduction system;
- A fixed bearing tibial insert;
- A cochlear implant;
- A resorbable vascular scaffold system;
- The risks associated with Pink-tinted Chlorhexidine use in hospitals; and

- The conditional Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) safety of a cochlear implant.

The committee considered whether the benefits outweighed the risks for the devices and whether adequate evidence has been provided to demonstrate safety and performance through compliance with the Essential Principles.

The committee's advice has now been provided to the TGA for consideration as part of the TGA's regulatory decision-making processes.
