

I have used one of these products for some time and have experienced enjoyable anal sexual activity through its use. Previously I found that without it anal sexual activity was often painful and / or too difficult and resulted in low self esteem for both parties.

I do agree that there should be proper packaging on products and every effort to minimise or prevent the accidental use by children and this can be best done by education and changing in packaging. Moving the products to schedule 9 would be an overreaction to a small number of issues reported as described in the submission documentation.
