Homoeopathic Products Working group meeting

Friday 9 June 2017

Attendees:

Apologies:

Discussion: The paper "Homoeopathic products - next steps conversation starter" provided the background on the review of homoeopathic products and the public consultation submissions.

Main topics discussed during the meeting:

After an introduction and background on the review of homoeopathic products, discussion turned to the regulatory options proposed in the paper.

In setting the scene, a 2008 CMA homeopathic product market survey paper was discussed.

Based on the figures in the paper (approx. 60,000 exempt homeopathic products in 2008) and recent media reports on how much Australians spend on alternative therapies ($3.9 billion per year), we estimate that in 2017 there are in the order of 100,000 exempt homoeopathic products already on the Australian market (compared with 140 non-exempt homoeopathic products in the ARTG).
