Hi,

I support the proposed amendments.

I have a few people close to me that would benefit from low-dose CBD to help with their anxiety.

I regard it as safe, from regularly reading articles and medical journals.

Given that it is legal in other countries such as USA, UK and EU and we don't see misuse there, it leads me to believe there is minimal risk.

I would like to see pharmacists have some training in the area that they are delivering the advice.

I believe it would make help more accessible to people suffering from mild anxiety and stress related issues.

Regards,
