

I am writing on behalf of myself, my family and thousands of other Australians that we should be able to continue to have access to Homeopathic medicine in Australia and to have the right to choose our own form of alternative healthcare when necessary.

I have been using these medicines for the past 15 years as a family and have seen great benefits from homeopathy .

We as Australians should be free to have the options to choose alternate medicines for our families and we object to having these rights taken away from us. We should be able to choose what we know is best and beneficial for our families at any given time.

I had glandular fever when I was a child and I struggled with a low immune system for most of my life after that , constantly feeling run down and always tired and I susceptible to catching colds and flu and anything that was going around.

On a visit to my general practitioner, he ordered blood tests and the results showed that I was carrying the Epstein Barr virus which he said I would have for life as there was no way of getting rid of it.

I visited a homeopath who prescribed a remedy to help rid my body of the Epstein Barr Virus and 6 months later I had another blood test and was thrilled to find that there was no Epstein Barr virus in my system.

Since taking the homeopathic remedy there is no trace of Epstein Barr virus and I am now 65 years of age and my health has improved beyond belief.

I am very thankful that we have other complimentary medicines such as Homeopathy available to treat conditions effectively.

This is just one of many instances where homeopathy has helped me and my family overcome illness .

It is of great concern to me and my family that Homeopathy is under dispute.

I strongly support Option 1 and definitely strongly oppose options 3 and 4.

Regards.
