Submission to the TGA re Homoeopathy Regulation

I wish to express my concern and objection to the potential change of homoeopathy to an un-therapeutic good in Australia.

As a practicing naturopath of 20 years I have seen the safety and effectiveness of homoeopathy in many situations and spent time observing in an Indian hospital where the primary treatment of clients was via homoeopathy. Millions people use homoeopathy world wide. The Swiss did their own independent investigation of the available evidence and as a result of the outcome, incorporated homoeopathy into their public health care system.

The NHMRC report on homoeopathy – currently being reviewed by an ombudsman due to irregularities which indicate bias against finding positive evidence for homoeopathy, is not a sound base for the TGA to make theraeuptic decisions upon.

I sincerely hope that reason, good judgement and true science prevail in this case and homoeopathy remains regulated as a therapeutic treatment available to all Australian's.

Thank you for your time and considerations
